VOLUME XLIV — UKIAH CITY, MENDOCINO COUNTY CAL., FRIDAY MORNING, AUGUST 2, 1912 — NUMBER 42

UKIAH SCORES 16 TO UPPER LAKE'S 3

Anticipating an easy victory over Ukiah by reason of Lakeport's piling up of a score of 14 to 4 against her the previous Sunday the Upper Lake ball team blew into town last Sunday morning jubilant and hilarious. It blew out again the same evening considerably subdued, bearing a hard luck story to the waiting ones at home concerning a score of 16 to 3 that Ukiah stacked up against it.

Van at the bat.

The local boys had been practicing during the week and had promised our fans that they would show them some ball playing Sunday. The farce of the previous Sunday had dampened the enthusiasm of the fans, however, and there was a comparatively small audience to witness the game. However, Ukiah redeemed herself nobly and deserves credit for the way in which she has pulled herself out of a most discouraging slump.

The Lake County boys were utterly dazed by Van Dyke's curves and were absolutely unable to find him. On the other hand Ukiah batted the Lake county pitcher all over the diamond. Cleve Tallman, the Upper Lake captain, lays the blame for the score on his pitcher, stating that his regular man was hunting and unable to come, but the Ukiah boys say that it would have been all the same anyhow. They felt like playing ball and nothing could have stopped them.

It is to be hoped that a return match can be secured with Lakeport and a chance given the Ukiah team to wipe out the disgraceful score of July 21st.

JUDGE J. H. BRADEN DIES AT 80 YEARS

J. H. Braden, a former well known resident of the Laytonville section, passed away at his home near Ukiah last Tuesday evening at the ripe old age of 80 years. He was one of the couny's oldest pioneers.

Mr. Braden was born in 1832 and came to this county when a young man in the early fifties. He settled near Latyonville where he lived until about ten years ago, when he sold his place to the Government and moved to Ukiah. Here he bought a small ranch and has made his home on it since.

He was justice of the peace of Long Valley township many years and saw many stirring times in that section in the early days when the cowboys and Indians were the principal residents and kept the peace officers busy maintaining the majesty of the law. He was one of the best known men in the northern section and many an old timer will hear of his death with regret.

He leaves five children to mourn his demise, his daughter, Mrs. George Bidwell, being with him at the end.

The remains were laid away yesterday morning in the Ukiah cemetery.

WILSON INVITES SANFORD EAST

W. F. McCoombs, chairman of the Democratic National Committee has, on behalf of Governor Wilson, invited Senator Sanford, the Democratic Committeeman for California, to again visit Seagirt as the guest of Governor Wilson, as the following telegram explains:

TELEGRAM

New York City, July 31, 1912.

Hon. J. B. Sanford Ukiah Cal.

Permit me to invite you to attend the notification ceremonies to be held at Seagirt on August 7th. Your presence there would not only be greatly appreciated by Governor Wilson and this committee but would be an added assurance of amenities and harmony in the party and would contribute much to the achievement of our common purpose—Democratic success. I wish you would favor us with a visit at Headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Building upon your way to or from Seagirt.

William F. McCoombs, Chairman Democratic National Committee.

AUTOMOBILE TRUCK BREAKS DOWN BRIDGE

Last Friday an automobile truck plying between this place and Lake county broke through the bridge which lies just this side of the county line.

The bridge began to settle as soon as the auto ran upon it and then the stringers dropped to the creek bottom at one end. The chauffeur put on his power and ran up the incline to the main body of the bridge, which remained solid. He escaped without mishap. It took about eight thousand feet of lumber to make the repairs, which was hauled out by Louis Anker last Saturday.

Fined $30

Will Hollingsworth, who was charged by Game Warden Miller with hunting without a license, had his trial before a jury in Judge Crockett's court the first of the week. Mr. Hollinsworth defended himself. The jury brought in a verdict of guilty and he was fined $30 by Judge Crockett.

This is the first time a jury trial on a charge of infraction of the game laws has resulted in a conviction in this county.

Camper Drops Dead

W. M. Hartman, a well known citizen of Fort Bragg, dropped dead in his wagon the first of the week while returning to his home from a camping trip. The party was proceeding up the Ten Mile hill and Mr. Hartman had got out to walk allowing his wife to drive the wagon up the hill. When he overtook it he climbed in and immeidately expired.

BOARD OF EDUCATION FINISHES BUSINESS

Mabel Thompson was excused. Mrs. Mayme Brereton's case laid over until the January, 1913, meeting. Mrs. Emma Gray Sutton was cited to appear and show cause why her certificate should not be revoked. Mr. D. S. Buterbaugh was cited to show cause why his certificate should not be revoked for making conflicting and false reports and for irregularities in conducting examinations for promotion and graduation.

Certificates were granted as follows:

High School—John W. Riedeman, Pearl Watkins, Vivian Place, B. A. Lindsay, Gladys W. Clark.

Special—Patrick J. Conway.

Wanted Over Two Years

L. A. Linsey, of Willits, who has been wanted for over two years by the sheriff of Mendocino county for deserting his family at Willits, was apprehended in Los Angeles the first of the week owing to the untiring efforts of Sheriff Ralph Byrnes, who has been on the man's track ever since he has been in office.

Linser will be brought back to this county to stand trial by Constable Whitcomb, of Willits, who went after him last Tuesday.

This capture is one more that will add to Brynes' laurels as a detective.

GETS FIVE YEARS IN SAN QUENTIN

James Hill, alias Warren Powell, alias John A. Butler, who was arrested Tuesday of last week by Sheriff Brynes for passing a bogus check on the Bank of Ukiah, waived trial last Monday morning in the Superior court and was sentenced by Judge White to five years in San Quentin.

He stated that his true name was not Hill, but that he desired to be sentenced under that name.

He has considerable of a career behind him, having been arrested for a similar offense in the East and having forfeited his bail. He came West several months ago on his way to Buenos Aires, whither his parents were sending him to make a new start. He fell in with a woman in San Francisco, however and started again on his career of crime.

He is 23 years of age and has been married, being now divorced.

His home is in Indianapolis, where his parents are well-to-do.

Jap Laundry Burned

The Japanese laundry at the corner of Church and School streets went up in smoke last Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The Japs lay the cause of the conflagration to a gas leak and a fire in their furnace. Some Ukiah families will suffer slight losses in lingerie and other habiliments, but the most of the laundry had been finished and sent home.

The building belonged to the Eagles and was insured for a smalll amount. It has been on fire several times before.

It is stated that the edifice was originally the first Baptist church built in Ukiah and that it was over 45 years old.

Business Increasing

The proprietor of the Cash Nursery of Sebastopol, was up from his home in the Sonoma County town the first of the week. He is well in known in this county, having sold stock here for several years. He is a rustler and states that his business has increased $2000 over that of last year.

WELL KNOWN COUPLE WED AT CON CREEK

Cupid stole a march at Con Ceerk, Sunday July 28, when Ralph Waldo Eldredge and Miss Cora Louise Pallady were quietly and happily married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pallady. The ceremony was performed at 2 p. m. by Rev. Laning of the M. E. Church, South, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom and Miss Alta Nunn, of Christine.

The room where the ceremony was performed was very handsomely and tastefully decorated, being banked with ferns and flowers with which was intertwined white decorative paper. The marriage altar was in the form of a "good luck" horseshoe made with ferns and flowers overhung with white wedding bells.

The bride was beautifully and tastefully dressed in a gown of pure white silk, with overdress of white chiffon.

The bride is the third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Pallady, is a sweet and winsome young lady, and is highly esteemed by all who know her. She is of the brunette type and is very beautiful and highly accomplished.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Eldredge, of Christine, and has passed his entire life in this county. He is of exceptionally good habits and cheeful disposition, having the faculty of making lasting friends with all whom he meets.

The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for Healdsburg and Santa Rose where they will visit with the sisters of the bride, Mrs. E. T. Legg, and family, and Miss Zella Pallady, after which they will proceed to the bay cities for a short honeymoon and visit with relatives and many friends. They will return later to Anderson valley, where they will make their future home.

Their many friends will wish them a world of sunshine and happiness.

(Santa Rosa Papers please copy).

CONSIDERS CLAIMS; DON'T WANT PLANT

The board of town trustees at its meeting last Monday night considered the claims of certain property owners on South State street for damages growing out of the widening of that thoroughfare. Mrs. E. H. Phillips was allowed $125 and Talbot Evans' claim for $200 was referreed to H. B. Smith and J. L. Brown with full power to act.

A communication was received from the Ukiah Gas Co. making a proposition to the town to buy the electric light plant or to sell the town the gas plant. Secretary Cunningham was instructed to notify the company's San Francisco office, whence the proposition came, that the town wished neither to sell the light plant nor to buy the gas plant.

John Coble, a progressive citizen of Potter valley, was in Ukiah last Wednesday on business, being registered at the Cecille.

Puts On Second Truck

Carl Lambert and his partner have bought another 3-ton auto truck to put on the run from Anderson valley to Cloverdale for the purpose of hauling bark. Those who scouted the ide a of a motor truck being able to make the run economically have now been won over completely in favor of the trucks and Mr. Lambert has all the contracts he will be able to handle with both machines.

There are now 7 auto trucks in use in this county in the freight and passenger traffic and as they seem to be more economical than teaming it is only a matter of time before they will be a common sight on our highways.

Isaac Hitchcock Very Low

Mrs. H. J. Randall and sister, Mrs. McFarland, departed by auto Wednesday evening for Gualala, having received word that their father, Isaac Hitchcock, was dying.

Mr. Hitchcock is 78 years of age and is an old pioneer, coming to California in 1846. He has resided on the cost since 1868.

UKIAH NORMAL TO BE CONTINUED

It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that Professor Mower who for the past three years has been at the head of the local high school, is to remain in Ukiah, and will have charge of the Ukiah Normal school which has been conducted for the past twenty years by Mrs. W. W. Porterfield.

Professor Mower, when principal of Oak Mound academy at Napa, conducted a Normal Class in the school for fifteen years and is thus perfectly familiar with that kind of work.

There have also been many requests to have a night school established in connection with the Normal, and tentative arrangements have already been made for the establisment of such a school. In case the night school is established, Prof. C. A. Bernhard, who has been at the head of the Commercial department of the local high school for the past eight years, one of the ablest commercial teachers in the state, will have charge of the Commercial subjects.

The many friends of Professor Mower will be pleased to learn that he is to remain in Ukiah as in connection with his school work he has been prominent in musical, social, and church circles.

ESTABLISHES CREDIT THEN OVERDRAWS

Sheriff Byrnes made a flying trip to Eureka the latter part of last week, returning to Ukiah Sunday. He was in quest of a bad check man, who was working under the name of Beck. The latter passed checks on two Ukiah merchants and then skipped out for Fort Bragg. Here he deposited twenty dollars in a bank and began checking on it. Of course the checks were honored and he established his credit. Saturday afternoon he worked the town again with bigger checks aggregating in the neighborhood of a hundred dollars. He left before the bank opened Monday morning when the checks were presented and the fraud discovered. Beliveing he had gone north Byrnes took a trip to Eureka to see it he could locate him, but the quest was fruitless.

The sheriff was accompanied by a Fort Bragg, man who knew the forger and could identify him. The return trip was made clear through from Eureka in one day in Byrnes car.

DEMOCRATS MEET SEPTEMBER FOURTEENTH

The Executive Committee of the Democratic County Central Committee met yesterday to attend to the details made necessary by the primary law. The primaries are to take place according to law on September 3rd. At the same time delegates will be selected to attend the county convention which the committee has set for September 14th. The convention will be composed of 126 delegates, the basis being one delegate for each 20 votes cast or major fraction thereof, for Theodore A. Bell for Governor. The codvention will be held in Ukiah. The regular primary call will be published at the proper time.

Sandelin on the Carpet

Frank Sandelin, landlord of the Palace hotel, was up on the carpet before the town board last Monday night on a charge of having sold liquor to an habitual drunkard. The charge was preferred by Marshal County Brewer, who knows neither fear nor favor in the performance of his duty.

Sandelin had been served with a notice in this case but as his bartender is a new man, the board decided to let him off with a warning, and this is what was done.

To Open New Territory

The extension of the Petaluma and Santa Rosa Electric railway into the Two Rock country of western Sonoma county has been begun. It is said the extension will result in the subdivision of many large ranches in that part of the county.

ASSESSOR THOMAS ANSWERS LAST CALL

County Assessor M. A. Thomas passed away last Monday, July 29, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon at his home in Ukiah, succumbing to heart complications which had assailed him about 18 months ago and which had baffled the effortsof the most skillful physicians that could be procured.

With the passing of Mr. Thomas went one of our pioneer settlers as well as one of the most faithful servants of the people that ever entered the court house.

He was born at Macon, Georgia, December 15, 1846, and was the son of Dr. J. R. and S. R. Thomas. The privileges of school were denied him by reason of the war of the Rebellion, which broke out when he was 14 years old. At the age of 16 he enlisted as a private in the service of the Confederacy and served until wounded and taken to the Union prison hospital in Washington City, where he remained until the close of the war. He was then taken to Savannah, Ga., from which place, though still suffering severely from this wound, he walked to his home in Macon.

M. A. THOMAS, late County Assessor

In December, 1867, he came with his parents by way of Panama to California where he resided in Solano county until the fall of 1868, when he moved to Redwood valley in this county, where he engaged in general ranching with his father.

In February, 1876, he was married to Martha E. Hughes and from this union were born six children, of which three daughters and two sons are living—Mrs. Mary Todd, Misses Kate and Ruth Thomas, Dr. Roberd Thomas, of Ukiah and Attorney Anderson Thomas, of San Francisco.

In 1898 Mr. Thomas was the nominee of the Democratic party for the office of county assessor, to which he was elected and which he held as the result of three successive elections until the time of his death. He was one of the best officials that the county ever had in that capacity, and that his administration was appreciated by the people is amply attested by the fact that he was returned to office so regularly.

The funeral service was held Wednesday at the M. E. Church, South, being preached by Rev. J. E. Moore, who rendered the deceased a high tribute. The service at the grave was under the auspices of Abell Lodge, F. & A. M. A large concourse attended both services.

He was a member of the Knights Templar and the Improved Order of Redmen.

Wants $10,500 Damages

Preston & Preston, acting for Geo. Schultze, have filed a suit against the Little Valley Lumber Co., asking for $10,500 damages. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff was working for the defendant company in March of this year and that he had been sent up to clean out a sawdust conveyor. While engaged in this work the conveyor started up and Schultze was thrown against the circular saw and suffered the loss of four fingers and a part of one hand.

Off for High Bush

Frank Cunningham, Bert Johnson, Charles Copsey, Mark Carpenter and Hale McCowen Junior departed last Saturday morning for San Hedrin. They took two wagons and a good camp outfit and will be gone about ten days. Their camp is on the eastern end of the mountain.

DEATH PUZZLES OFFICERS

Mangled Remains on Railroad Track Hint at Foul Play

(Special to Dispatch.)

Willits, July 30—Frank Nenicco, an Italian, was run over by a train, or trains, and badly mangled last Sunday morning in the first tunnel below Willits, about 9 miles distant. One arm and leg were cut off and most of his bones were broken when he was rolled over the ties by the trains.

Conductor Edward's work train crew discoverd the body lying between the rails but this train, also ran over the body before it could be stopped. The crew went back and picked up the body and scattered remains and placed them on an improvised stretcher just outside of the tunnel, and then notified the local authorities. Judge Whitney and Constable Whitcomb went down and viewed the body and then brought the remains to Willits.

Yesterday a coroner's inquest was held but nothing definite could be found out. Dr. G. A. Woelffel performed a post mortem examination and stated that the body was dead when it was mangled by the trains, for there was no blood in the body when he made the examination and there was no evidence of bleeding when the body was found. The jury and the train crew both made a very careful examination of the tunnel and could find but little blood—not as much as a chicken loses when its head is cut off.

The man may have been murdered outside and carried into the tunnel, or he may have fallen down outside and received the injuries from which he bled to death, and then walked into the tunnel and fell down on the track. The jury after being in session nearly all day and well into the night, finally decided that the deceased came to his death from some unknown cause and exonerated the railroad crew.

The deceased worked as flunkey at Fairbanks & Baechtel's railroad camp below Dos Rios for several weeks, and was fired last week on account of his quarrelsome nature. He may have had trouble with some of his fellow Italian laborers and they may have done him up. After he was fired he came to Willits and left here Saturday morning. One very suspicious matter was the discovery of about 100 dynamite caps in the deceased's pockets. These caps are used to set off dynamite and the question is, what was he doing with them? Some think he was on his way back to the camp and that he was going to blow up the parties with whom he had trouble.

Mooned, Spooned, Marooned

The only unpleasant happening connected with the excursion to Fort Bragg last Sunday was that of a Willits young couple who went down to the beach to listen to the wild waves. The tides was out and they went out as far as they could and then climbed up on a rock. It was a most romantic spot and just suited to their frame of mind; and as they watched the breakers, the gulls and the seas the wind wafted the strains of "Love's Old Sweet Song."

They were entranced and forgot all about the common humdrum affairs of everyday life and the tide came in and surrounded them. When they came to they discovered that they were on a little island and the young man took off his shoes and stockings rolled up his trousers, and the young lady climbed on his back and he carried her to the shore in this romantic fashion.

We will not tell the young man's name but will merely state that he is a clerk at the Willits Mercantile Store.—Willits News.

Holy Rollers At Willits

Willits, July 31—Willits now had a Holy Roller outfit. They hold their meetings in a large tent about a block back of the old dryer, in the Daugherty addition, and the meetings are well attended.

Last night the writer attended out of curiosity but was very much disappointed for the affair was as tame as a Methodist camp meeting. Some nights they get happy and roll and yell nearly all night long.

Value of Massage.

The value of massage properly administered is coming to be generally recognized by the medical profession in many ailments. In nasal congestion the overtension of the tissues can often be relaxed thus bringing to the sufferer a relief which, not forthcoming, would allow the ailment to progress to a protracted or deep seated disorder. The New York Medical Journal, concerning the benefits to be derived from massage treatment, says that in acute cold in the head strong finger pressure along the upper portion of the spine on either side will open up the nose passages on the corresponding side. Masseurs usually rub well on both sides of the spine. Fever headaches, or congestion of the head, are readily relieved by slow, distributed pressure on the nerves at the back of the head and along the upper vertebrae. Acute fevers, accompanied by congestion, swollen veins, dry skin, are relieved by gentle pressure along the back muscles, this treatment being intended to facilitate perspiration and to quiet the nerves.

Barrie's Favorite Name.

Of women's names that of Margaret occurs most often in the works of J. M. Barrie. There was a Margaret in "The Little Minister," in "Quality Street," in "The Admirable Crichton," and Margaret, called "Maggie" Wylie, was the heroine of "What Every Woman Knows." The name to Mr. Barrie sums up everything that is tender, simple, noble and true in fine womanhood. And why not? Margaret Ogilvy was the maiden name of James Matthew Barrie's mother. And surely it was of his mother, Margaret Barrie, that the playwright was thinking when he wrote these lines descriptive of Margaret Darling, mother of Wendy, in "Peter Pan:"

"She was a lovely lady, with a romantic mind and such a sweet, mocking mouth. Her romantic mind was like the little boxes one within the other that come from the puzzling east. However many you discover there is always one more."

Benbow and His Messmate.

When the brave Admiral Benbow was a common sailor his messmate, who was stationed with him at the same gun, lost his leg by a cannon shot. The poor fellow called to his friend Benbow, who took him upon his shoulder and descended with him to the cockpit. But it happened that just as the poor fellow's head came upon a level with the deck another ball carried that off also. Benbow, however, knew nothing of the matter and carried the body down to the surgeon, calling out to the latter that he had brought a patient, desiring some one to bear a hand. The surgeon turned about and exclaimed:

"Why, what do you do here with a man who has lost his head?"

"Lost his head!" says Benbow. "A lying scoundrel! He told he it was his leg, but I never believed what he said in my life without being sorry for it afterward."

"Martha's" Debt to the Cook.

Writing of Friedrich von Flotow, the composer of "Martha," Dr. Adolf Kobut says that Flotow's parents intended that he should enter the diplomatic service, but that the love for music and the discovery of his talent changed the parental plans. Among the anecdotes which his biographer relates is this: "One day when 'Martha' was in the making he said to me: 'I sat at the piano and played over and over again a melody which I wanted to make use of, but in no form of the many which I had given it did it appeal to me. After hours I arose in disgust and then heard the cook on the other side of the hall sing my melody, giving it a peculiar twist. That will be popular, I said, wrote it down, and so it stands.'" —New York Tribune.

Who He Was.

The court was having trouble getting a satisfactory jury.

"Is there any reason why you could not pass impartially on the evidence for and against the prisoner?" asked the judge of a prospective juror.

"Yes," was the reply; "the very looks of that man make me think he is guilty."

"Why, man," exclaimed the judge, "that's the prosecuting attorney!"—Ladies' Home Journal.

Girls Not Wanted.

In India there are more males than females. The proportion of the sexes at birth is not very different from that in European countries, "but subsequent conditions are relatively less favorable to female life." Even today female children are not wanted. Not very many years ago the practice of killing them off was common, and, while this horror has been very generally abolished now, the girl babies are thought little of and neglected if nothing worse. They are neither so well clothed nor so well fed as the boys and if ill are not well looked after. Regarding this question an English official in India related a conversation with a middle aged Punjabi gentleman who had been compelled as a boy to assist at the murder of his infant sister and whose aunt had had seven daughters and killed them all. He was careful to add that his family has since abandoned such practices. In Gujarat there is a proverb that "the parents look after the boys and God looks after the girls."

A Fish With False Teeth.

Cap Wilson, the inventor of as many different kinds of spoons as there are fish that will take them, has discovered a new lure for catfish. He was on an outing among the sloughs of the Sacramento river when one of his companions found him on the deck of his launch, roaring loudly.

"What's the matter?" he inquired.

"Matter! Huh! There's a twenty dollar catfish down under this boat—an' I'm a-goin' to get him if I have to seine him out!"

"How do you figure a catfish worth $20?"

"This a-way: I was standin' right here a-cleanin' my new set of false teeth when he come up to the top, looked at me an' opened his mouth. I grabbed for the boathook to gaff him an' dropped the teeth. Plump they went, right square into his mouth. Now he's down there crackin' crabs with my teeth, an' I got to eat clam chowder onten a salmon spoon."—Saturday Evening Post.

The Mace.

The mace was originally a potent weapon of offense, originating doubtless in that earliest and most common weapon the wooden club. It was an essential part of a knight's accoutrement, being useful at close quarters. For ready convenience it was hung at his saddlebow. Says an ancient poem:

And with his heavy mace of steel
Then he gave the kying his deel

The besague and baston were varieties forms of the mace. The mace used on horseback was a small weapon, usually of steel. That used on foot was much longer and commonly of wood with head armed with iron rings and spikes. It was carried by the escort of magistrates and others as a ready protection against violence. As society quieted down and its original use fell into abeyance the thing assumed the ornamental appearance it now has, it now being carried in a mere honorary form.—London Notes and Queries.

Why He Chased Them Off.

Two bank presidents on a summer vacation were patiently fishing from the mossy bank of a quiet steam when two farmer's lads came out of a nearby field and, after watching the fishermen awhile, began to play tag in the grass.

Annoyed by their gambols, one of the financiers chased the lads away and returned to his task.

"Good idea!" commented the other angler. "Boys scare the fish away."

"Oh, that wasn't why I chased them off!" rejoined his companion. "But I always dread a run on the bank."—Judge's Library.

A Batch of Bulls.

There are several interesting bulls in the following serious paragraph that appeared one time in an Irish newspaper: "To rob a man of his purse and then maltreat him for not having it would pass muster among pitiless brutal crimes, but to kill and slay a man to the point of death and then murder him for not dying quick enough is one point better in the catalogue of human infamy. It is enough to make Irishmen set their teeth and talk silently in groups."

The Byplay Minstrels.

"Mr. Interlocutor, can you tell me the difference between a kiss and a sewing machine?"

"No, Mr. Bones, I cannot. Please tell us the difference between a kiss and a sewing machine."

"One seems so nice and the other sews seams nice."

"Mr. Ogo Soakim will now render that beautiful ballad entitled 'When Mother Found Her Rat In Grandpa's Beard'"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Cheering Her Up.

Small Boy—Don't you have good times when you travel in the train?

Mrs. Grabber—Why, dear?

Small Boy—Well, mamma said you was double faced, and I think it would be an awful lot of fun to look out of two windows at once.—London Telegraph.

The Soft Answer.

"Don't you believe a soft answer turns away wrath? I tried it the other day with my wife."

"And she got mad?"

"Did she? She asked me what her biscuits tasted like, and I merely said mush."—Baltimore American.

Cocoanut Trees.

Cocoanut trees when systematically laid out are planted twenty-five to thirty feet apart, making fifty to sixty-five trees per acre. If the young trees are well taken care of the first nuts are borne in the fourth year, but if they grow wild it may take ten years, according to soil and conditions. Under favorable cultivation they will produce a maximum yield in eight to ten years, which will continue until the tree is fifty to sixty years old. There are, however, trees 100 years old still producing. The tree produces regardless of the seasons that control our domestic plant life. Blossoms come forth every month, and the nuts ripen about twelve months later all the year round. Thus every phase of growth may be found on each tree. From 75 to 100 merchantable nuts come to maturity yearly, although each tree is commonly believed to produce a bloom for each day. The nuts at maturity fall from the trees, but are often hand picked by the natives, who can run up the tree with great agility.

Superior Precison.

A young American who was studying at Oxford was struck by the care with which his chambermaid cleaned his desk without disturbing his papers. To reward her he offered her some confections which he had brought from London.

"Mary, wouldn't you like some of this candy?"

"Ho, thank you, sir. Yes, sir. But hexcuse me, sir, this ain't candy; it's sweets."

Then she proceeded to give him a lesson in the difference between sugar or molasses candy and bonbons, chocolate confections and other sweetmeats or "sweets."

"Thank you for telling me the difference, Mary," said the student, somewhat amused. "In America we call it all candy."

"Ho, yes, sir; in America I fancy it's all the same, sir, but in Hingland we 'ave a nyme for heverything."

Changing Ideals.

"You haven't really broken with him!" exclaimed Miss Ascum. "Why, I thought he was your ideal."

"So he was," replied Miss Fickell, "but as soon as I find a man who sizes up to my ideal it seems to be my luck to have the fashions in ideals change."—Catholic Standard and Times.

What She Wanted.

Lady In Shoe Store—These shoes pinch terribly. Haven't you anything larger? Salesman—You asked for No. 2's, madam. I can give you No. 3's or No. 4's or— Lady—The idea! I want something larger in No. 2's.—New York Weekly.

Love and Friendship.

Love is the shadow of the morning, which decreases as the day advances. Friendship is the shadow of the evening, which strengthens with the setting sun of life.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework a day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealers.

Peter the Great and Lawyers.

In Russia during the reign of Peter the Great private litigants might have their suits presented free of cost by lawyers paid by the state. The emperor, discovering that his subjects were being imposed upon by their legal agents, who contrived to delay trials until they had sucked their clients dry, enacted that sufficient solicitors and attorneys should be employed at handsome yearly salaries to officiate for the public in every manner of law. He ordered further that these men should insert in a register written up daily the dates of applications to them and should proceed with the suits in the order in which they were received without regard of persons. If they failed to do so, if they accepted any bribe or fee or if they were dilatory these lawyers were to be knouted and sent to Siberia.

Turner Had His Way.

The late J. M. W. Turner, one of England's most famous artists, served for some time on the hanging committee of the Royal academy, and one day when he strode into the picture rooms he was struck by a picture sent in by an unknown provincial artist of the name of Bird. Turner took it into his hands and examined it this way and that. "A fine work," he exclaimed. "It must be hung up and exhibited."

"Impossible," responded the other members of the committee. "The walls are full and the arrangements cannot be disturbed."

"A fine work," repeated Turner. "It must be hung up and exhibited." And, finding his colleagues to be as obstinate as himself, he hitched down one of his own pictures and hung up Bird's in its place.—Oscar Frichet in National Magazine.

The Place.

Miss Gotham—I have just been reading an article entitled "Have We Ever Lived Before?" I sometimes fancy we have.

Mr. Bowtham—Indeed!

Miss Gotham—Yes. I frequently find myself moved by a weird transcendental motion which seems to be unquenchable struggling consciousness of a pre-existence. But if I have lived before, where could it have been?

Mr. Bowtham—Judging from the kind of emotion you have described, it must have been near Copley square, in Boston.—Puck.

The Soft Answer.

[illegible] who drove the [illegible] stage in a small town in the Virginia shore where the late Senator Daniel had spent the season. In good weather the weather was fine, was the only person out in which the old rattle was so [illegible] that he had summarily relieved several [illegible] to the old man's [illegible] more orders than one but [illegible] could possibly do.

One stormy night the senator said "Now, Jordan, be here tomorrow morning in time to take me to the 10 o'clock boat without fail. I have an important engagement in Washington."

Jordan drove away, promising to show up in good season. But next morning a quarter to 10 came and no Jordan. Finally, at five minutes to 10 he drove up, and the senator climbed in and started on a mad ride to the wharf arriving there just in time to see the boat pulling out.

"Now, Jordan," cried the exasperated Daniel, "I said we'd miss it!"

"Yes, sah, dat's so, suh," with saddest inspiration. "Ole nag ain't been what he gone."—Everybody's.

No Wonder the Cooking Was Bad.

We took up a scientific publication the other evening and discovered to our surprise that boiling boils at minus 273 degrees C. This is something like 365 degrees below zero F. Here most of us have been going along trying to make boiling stews or boil normal beans and cabbage, or even boiling frankfurters with dumplings and have wondered what made the dish turn out wrong. We've all been trying to cook boiling above zero, when it should have been quite the other way.

We also discovered that silver melts at 960 C., while gold melts at 1,062 C. While the article does not give any particulars as to greenbacks, our experience is that they will melt at almost any temperature between the first and the fifth of the month.

And iron will boil at a temperature of 2,450 C., so it is quite useless, not to say futile, to attempt to boil beliun and iron together.—Chicago Post.

The Way You Do It.

One reads that Darwin never understood an equation, and the chances are that Isaac Newton could not have passed any examination in literary or aesthetic subjects with his idea that poetry was ingenious nonsense and statuary only stone dolls. Faraday had no gift for mathematics, and it is a moot ed question if Napoleon Bonaparte could have passed a college entrance examination in French. But it was their ability to do some one thing well that has turned the world upside down at various times in its forward march, not their inability to do badly what all the world only does moderately well. It makes little difference what you do. The difference lies in the way you do it. The business world is overstocked with poor people looking for good positions, while good positions are waiting for good people to fill them.

Having a Hobby in Middle Age.

Busy middle age needs a hobby as a recreation, a diversion, a getting away from the stress and strain of active mental or physical labor. A clerk in the municipal court in Chicago built himself a little observatory and purchased a telescope. The neighbors laughed and called it his cheese box. But the articles he wrote about his discoveries in the heavenly realms attracted the attention of learned astronomers, who began to ask, "Who is he?" And they were astonished at what he had accomplished with his meager equipment. But what of that? What if no one had known of his little hobby? It would still have served its purpose in the broadening of his life and the preserving of his mental and physical energy.—Farm and Fireside

Time Wasted.

"I courted my wife three years before I got her," confided a friend, "and a lot of that was wasted time."

"Why," we shuddered, "your wife is a most excellent woman."

"Indeed she is. I can lick the man that says she ain't. But since them dear old days I have discovered that I could have got her in twelve weeks if I'd had the gall to ask her. Did I waste time or didn't I?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Quite an Expert.

Some time ago in Edinburgh a Bohemian taught a female thief in the art of making a pickpocket. Seed with the pole in her hand when caught, made it the surprise of the constable to think of it would be found when she was searched, but the evidence being so strong she was sentenced to nine months imprisonment. On being released she found a pickpocket who had approached her and asking up to him, exclaimed:

"Now I'm out of it."

"Yes," replied the other. "But, I say, what did you do with that note? I've been waiting for you know, I'm sorry you by the hand that held it."

Seizing the policeman by the arm, she dashed in his face and said:

"You've often wondered, have you? Well, here it is."

And she withdrew the note from the captured cuff of his coat, where she had deftly slipped it when captured. Then, waving it in his face, she coolly walked off.—Pearson's Weekly.

Wise M. P.'s.

It need hardly be pointed out, says the author of "Fifty Years in Fleet Street," that to be elected a member of parliament does not necessarily imply intellectual superiority. Shortly after the Burmese war a young civilian, home on leave, happened to mention Burma.

"Ah, yes, Burma," said an M. P. with whom he was sitting at table. "I had a nephew who was in Burma, only he used to call it Bermuda."

On another occasion, in the month of March, some one said to Mr. Livesey:

"This is a cruel east wind."

"Yes," was the would be witty reply, "I expect it will be Easter before it is over."

This was repeated by the author of the book quoted to a respected member of parliament, who observed gravely: "I fancy he's right. I have known it to last till Easter and longer yet."

Mighty Kings.

The strongest king on record, so the story goes, appears to have been Calus Julius Verus Maximus, the son of a Tarasian peasant and emperor of Rome. It is related that with one of his fingers he stopped a chariot dashing by at full speed, that he could draw a loaded wagon and split trees with his hand. This redoubtable sovereign was eight feet high, and his wife's bracelets served him for finger rings. We have passed over Og, the king of Bashan, who was nearly six miles high, drank water from the clouds and toasted fish by holding them up to the sun and who, when Noah refused him shelter in the ark, survived those troublous times by wading through the flood, which only reached to his knees, and of Atlas, king of Mauritania, who is said to have supported the world upon his shoulders.—Exchange.

Ocean Musicians.

Apart from the ordinary risks of sea travel, one of the most comfortable positions on a big ocean liner is that of a member of the orchestra. True, the pay is not high, but it is considerably increased in various ways. Four and a half hours' work daily is all that is required by these makers of melody; but, of course, they have rehearsals and sometimes learn several new pieces in the course of a voyage. The players are booked as passengers on every trip and take their meals in the saloon. On the first two days of a voyage they are not very popular, but on the third day, when seasickness effects are wearing off, there is generally a lot of appreciation for the band.—London Answers.

A Judge's Charge.

During the time in Ireland when dueling was first prohibited by law Judge Fletcher was trying at the Sligo assizes a man named Fenton, who had killed another in a duel. The judge in his instructions to the jury said: "Gentlemen, it is my business to lay down the law to you, and I will. The law says the killing of a man in a duel is murder, and therefore in the discharge of my duty I am bound to tell you it is murder, but I tell you at the same time a fairer duel than this I never heard of in the course of my life." Fenton was acquitted.

I had trouble from my back and kidneys for several years, but I paid little attention to it until I felt so poorly that I knew some thing must be done. My back ached intensely and w as very lame at times. It could be plainly seen that my kidneys were disordered as the kidney secretions were unnatural and too frequent in passage, I tried plasters and remedies of various kinds, but found only slight relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They promptly disposed of my trouble and I have had no return attacks."

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework all day, and crawling into bed dead tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's tablets when needed, you should become both healthy and beautiful. For sale by all dealers.

Peter the Great and Lawyers.

In Russia during the reign of Peter the Great private litigants might have their suits prosecuted free of cost by lawyers paid by the state. The emperor, discovering that his subjects were being imposed upon by their legal agents, who contrived to delay trials until they had sucked their clients dry, enacted that sufficient solicitors and attorneys should be employed at handsome yearly salaries to officiate for the public in every matter of law. He ordered further that these men should insert in a register written up daily the dates of applications to them and should proceed with the suits in the order in which they were received without respect of persons. If they failed to do so, if they accepted any bribe or fee or if they were dilatory these lawyers were to be knonted and sent to Siberia.

Turner Had His Way.

The late J. M W. Turner, one of England's most famous artists, served for some time on the hanging committee of the Royal academy, and one day when he strode into the picture rooms he was struck by a picture sent in by an unknown provincial artist of the name of Bird. Turner took it into his hands and examined it this way and that. "A fine work," he exclaimed. "It must be hung up and exhibited."

"Impossible," responded the other members of the committee. "The walls are full and the arrangements cannot be disturbed."

"A fine work," repeated Turner. "It must be hung up and exhibited." And, finding his colleagues to be as obstinate as himself, he hitched down one of his own pictures and hung up Bird's in its place.—Oscar Frichet in National Magazine.

The Place.

Miss Gotham—I have just been reading an article entitled "Have We Ever Lived Before?" I sometimes fancy we have.

Mr. Rowtham—Indeed!

Miss Gotham—Yes. I frequently find myself moved by a weird transcendental motion which seems to be unquenchable struggling consciousness of a pre-existence. But if I have lived before, where could it have been?

Mr. Rowtham—Judging from the kind of emotion you have described, it must have been near Copley square, in Boston.—Puck.

The Soft Answer.

There was an old darky who drove the solitary hack in a small town on the Virginia shore where the late Senator Daniel had spent the season. In good weather the senator, who was lame, was its only patron, but in storm the old vehicle was so popular that he had narrowly missed several engagements owing to the old man's taking more orders than one antiquated chariot could possibly fill.

One stormy night the senator said: "Now, Jordan, be here tomorrow morning in time to take me to the 10 o'clock boat without fail. I have an important engagement in Washington."

Jordan drove away, promising to show up in good season. But next morning a quarter to 10 came and no Jordan. Finally, at five minutes to 10, he drove up, and the senator climbed in and started on a mad race to the wharf, arriving there just in time to see the boat pulling out.

"Now, Jordan," cried the exasperated Daniel, "I said we'd miss it!"

"Yes, suh, dat's so, but," with sudden inspiration, "she ain't been long gone!"—Everybody's.

No Wonder the Cooking Was Bad.

We took up a scientific publication the other evening and discovered to our surprise that helium boils at minus 273 degrees C. This is something like 305 degrees below zero F. Here most of us have been going along trying to make helium stews or boil corned helium and cabbage, or cook helium fricassee with dumplings and have wondered what made the dish turn out wrong. We've all been trying to cook helium above zero, when it should have been quite the other way.

We also discovered that silver melts at 961 C., while gold melts at 1,062 C. While the article does not give any particulars as to greenbacks, our experience is that they will melt at almost any temperature between the first and the fifth of the month.

And iron will boil at a temperature of 2,450 C., so it is quite useless, not to say futile, to attempt to boil helium and iron together.—Chicago Post.

The Way You Do It.

One reads that Darwin never understood an equation, and the chances are that Isaac Newton could not have passed any examination in literary or aesthetic subjects with his idea that poetry was ingenious nonsense and statuary only stone dolls. Faraday had no gift for mathematics, and it is a mooted question if Napoleon Bonaparte could have passed a college entrance examination in French. But it was their ability to do some one thing well that has turned the world upside down at various times in its forward march, not their inability to do badly what all the world only does moderately well. It makes little difference what you do. The difference lies in the way you do it. The business world is overstocked with poor people looking for good positions, while good positions are waiting for good people to fill them.

Having a Hobby In Middle Age.

Busy middle age needs a hobby as a recreation, a diversion, a getting away from the stress and strain of active mental or physical labor. A clerk in the municipal court in Chicago built himself a little observatory and purchased a telescope. The neighbors laughed and called it his cheese box. But the articles he wrote about his discoveries in the heavenly realms attracted the attention of learned astronomers, who began to ask, "Who is he?" And they were astonished at what he had accomplished with his meager equipment. But what of that? What if no one had known of his little hobby? It would still have served its purpose in the broadening of his life and the preserving of his mental and physical energy.—Farm and Fireside.

Time Wasted.

"I courted my wife three years before I got her," confided a friend, "and a lot of that was wasted time."

"Why," we shuddered, "your wife is a most excellent woman."

"Indeed she is, I can lick the man that says she ain't. But since them dear old days I have discovered that I could have got her in twelve weeks if I'd had the gall to ask her. Did I waste time or didn't I?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Quite an Expert.

Some time ago in Edinburgh a policeman caught a female thief in the act of stealing a banknote. Seen with the note in her hand when caught, much to the surprise of the constable no trace of it could be found when she was searched; but, the evidence being so strong, she was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment. On being released she observed the officer who had apprehended her and, going up to him, exclaimed:

"See, I'm out again!"

"So I see," replied the officer. "But, I say, what did you do with that note? I've often wondered, for, you know, I caught you by the hand that held it."

Seizing the policeman by the arm, she laughed in his face and said:

"You've often wondered, have you? Well, here it is."

And she withdrew the note from the upturned cuff of his coat, where she had deftly slipped it when captured. Then, waving it in his face, she coolly walked off.—Pearson's Weekly.

Wise M. P.'s.

It need hardly be pointed out, says the author of "Fifty Years in Fleet Street," that to be elected a member of parliament does not necessarily imply intellectual superiority. Shortly after the Burmese war a young civilian, home on leave, happened to mention Burma.

"Ah, yes, Burma," said an M. P. with whom he was sitting at table. "I had a nephew who was in Burma, only he used to call it Bermuda."

On another occasion, in the month of March, some one said to Mr. Livesey:

"This is a cruel east wind."

"Yes," was the would be witty reply. "I expect it will be Easter before it is over."

This was repeated by the author of the book quoted to a respected member of parliament, who observed gravely: "I fancy he's right. I have known it to last till Easter and longer yet."

Mighty Kings.

The strongest king on record, so the story goes, appears to have been Caius Julius Verus Maximus, the son of a Thracian peasant and emperor of Rome. It is related that with one of his fingers he stopped a chariot dashing by at full speed, that he could draw a loaded wagon and split trees with his hand. This redoubtable sovereign was eight feet high, and his wife's bracelets served him for finger rings. We have passed over Og, the king of Bashan, who was nearly six miles high, drank water from the clouds and toasted fish by holding them up to the sun and who, when Noah refused him shelter in the ark, survived those troublous times by wading through the flood, which only reached to his knees, and of Atlas, king of Mauritania, who is said to have supported the world upon his shoulders.—Exchange.

Ocean Musicians.

Apart from the ordinary risks of sea travel, one of the most comfortable positions on a big ocean liner is that of a member of the orchestra. True, the pay is not high, but it is considerably increased in various ways. Four and a half hours' work daily is all that is required by these makers of melody; but, of course, they have rehearsals and sometimes learn several new pieces in the course of a voyage. The players are booked as passengers on every trip and take their meals in the saloon. On the first two days of a voyage they are not very popular, but on the third day, when seasickness effects are wearing off, there is generally a lot of appreciation for the band.—London Answers.

A Judge's Charge.

During the time in Ireland when dueling was first prohibited by law Judge Fletcher was trying at the Sligo assizes a man named Fenton, who had killed another in a duel. The judge in his instructions to the jury said: "Gentlemen, it is my business to lay down the law to you, and I will. The law says the killing of a man in a duel is murder, and therefore in the discharge of my duty I am bound to tell you it is murder, but I tell you at the same time a fairer duel than this I never heard of in the course of my life." Fenton was acquitted.

I had trouble from my back and kidneys for several years, but I paid little attention to it until I felt so poorly that I knew some thing must be done. My back ached intensely and w as very lame at times. It could be plainly seen that my kidneys were disordered as the kidney secretions were unnatural and too frequent in passage, I tried plasters and remedies of various kinds, but found only slight relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. They promptly disposed of my trouble and I have had no return attacks."

The California Democracy

We fail to see any good reason for the row that was precipitated at the recent meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee. It is true that Mr. Bell was for Clark; but so were a lot of other good Democrats thoughout the State who are now working heart and soul for the success of Woodrow Wilson and the entire Democratic ticket. A new Central Committee is to be elected next month, when certain changes are to be expected as a matter of course. Meanwhile, there does not seem to be the slightest reason for questioning the sincerity of any of the well known gentlemen making up the present committee. Nor can they well be blamed for resenting the effort to supplant them for no good reason. When the new committee is selected, the members of the present body will be expected to give the new organization their earnest support. And they will, for they are that kind. There is not a sulker in the lot. Mr. Bell led the Democratic party when there seemed small hope of their success, and he made a great fight. California instructed for Clark, and the California delegation could in honor do nothing else than support him in the convention. His position as floor leader of the Clark forces made it imperative that the solidarity of his own delegation be maintained. Any sign of disintegation upon the part of the California delegation would have been regarded as showing a vital weakness upon the part of the entire Clark organization. The California delegation recognized this fact, and naturally governed itself accordingly. It could in fairness to Mr. Bell do nothing else. Every member of the California delegation is now a Wilson man, and can be depended upon to do everything in his power to bring about Mr. Wilson's election. With the prospects of success in November so bright, no thought of dissension should be allowed to prevail. And we do not believe that anything of the kind will develop. The convention is over, Mr. Wilson appears to be almost certian of election, and it is the part of every good Democrat to do his duty and work for the success of the ticket, as they will.—Santa Rosa Press Democrat.

Jabber Jabber Jabbers Again

Jabber Jabber White is greatly exercised over the democratic situation and devotes great space each week to what he imagines and hopes the situation to be. Last week he labored long in a vain effort to show that Senator Sanford and Theodore A. Bell were dead ones just becasue they carried out the instructions of the democrats of the state, which was five to one in favor of Clark. The democrats of Mendocino county gave the instruction by a ten to one vote and expected the delegates to carry out that mandate. The Californa delegation carried out the instructions given in a way to gain the eternal friendship of Champ Clark and excite the admiration of all opposition candidates. Wilson was so pleased with the way in which the Californians carried out the will of the people that he paid them a high compliment. The Champ Clark delegation will render Wilson the same successful service in November that they rendered Champ Clark at the May primary.

This honorable course is so different to Jabber Jabber's usual double cross system that he cannot understand it. He was just constituted wrong and is really not to blame if he does not comprehend decent politics. The truth is Jabber Jabber is right up against it. He is discredited by Hiram The First and his band of Bull Moosers and will not be trusted by the Taftites. So the little fellow is floundering around between the devil and the deep sea, imploring first one crowd and then the other. He became obsessed with an absurd aspiration to go to the Assembly but was turned down by Held whom he had always opposed yet claimed to support. Then Hiram would net place the brand of the Bull Moose on him and chose H. F. Milliken instead. Poor old Orville. He has always had a desire to break into politics, but he is always found out and is dumped into the scrap heap. On the street he supports one man and in his paper he supports the opponent. When he learns to be square possibly he may attract some attenton other than that of being the greatest double crosser and the most absurd prevaricator in the state.

Byrnes Has a Rival

Sheriff Brynes has a rival in the person of E. L. Cnningham.

Last Sunday while returning from the Gould ranch, the turns got to coming too frequent for Louis, as the grade is exceedingly steep and many of the curves would cramp a saddle horse. In rounding one of them he saw that he could not make it so put on his brakes and let the auto go straight ahead out onto the hillside. Unlike Brynes he did not see how far down the hill he could go before stopping, but stopped in such a position that the team which was brought into requisition had no trouble pulling him back on to the road.

There were no casualties other than the scratching Lee Welch, who was with Cunningham, received when he got out to crank the machine in the brush. But it was truly sad to see the way Lee's lily-white cuticle was scratched and marred by the naughty bushes.

Prisoner On Rampage

Deputy Sheriff Ward Reis, of Fort Bragg, came over to Ukiah last Tuesday, having in custody Jack Callan, better known as "Black Jack," of Caspar. Callan had been arrested for larceny and was incarcerated in the Fort Bragg jail. He went on a rampage and broke out all the windows in the jail with a chair and then dared anybody to come in. Marshall Fred Smith called the bluff and opened the door. He found Callan with a chair leg in his hand, rushed him, hit him under the jaw and they had to send Callan to the hospital for repairs.

Callan was sent to the county jail and will be tried in the Superior court.

Ries left for San Quentin with Hill, the forger, Wednesday.

Mrs. John Hodgson Dead

Word was received in Ukiah by friends yesterday telling of the death Wednesday of Mrs. John Hodgson at San Rafael.

She had been afflicted with tumor and an operation was decided on. She died under the knife.

The renmains will be shipped to Ukiah for burial and the funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 under the auspices of the Fraternal Brotherhood.

The deceased had lived at Low Gap and later in Ukiah for a number of years and has many friends here who are sorry to hear of her death. She leaves a husband and several children.

Her last request was that the mourners wear white at the funeral.

Gets a Bad Fall

Floyd Banker got a bad fall last Sunday while hunting and as a consequence suffered a broken ankle and other injuries which will lay him up for some time.

He had dismounted from his horse to shoot at a buck and after firing started to run down the hill. His spurs caught in the brush and he was thrown headlong some twenty or thirty feet.

He was rendered unconscious for a time and as he could not ride, had to be carried out to where a vehicle could be brouhgt to transport him home.

Brown Kills His First Buck

Curtis H. Miller and party returned this week from their camping trip to the Lane Springs ranch and report a fine outing. Many deer fell to their guns, Mr. Miller killing a Pacific buck that dressed 125 lbs.

J. L. Brown, who has lived in this section for 37 years kiled his first deer—a nice spike—during the trip.

Those in the party were Dr. Stout, and wife, J. L. Brown and wife, Mrs. Dora Bashford, of Oakland, sister of Mrs. Brown, and Mrs. John Beach, of San Francisco, Dr. Pierce, Curtis Miller and his father, E. H. Miller.

After the Bull Moose

Chas. W. Hogue and wife arrived in town from San Francisco the first of the week and went to Orr's Springs to enjoy an outing. Attorney Hogue is a strong organization republican and has loaded himself for big game and is going to beard the bull moose in its den. He is going to turn all his animals loose on the bull moose and get him if he can. He will have a number who will be willing to assist him allright, allright.

To Manufacture Tanks

Articles of incorporation were filed in the clerk's office this week for the Atlas Tank Mfg. Co.

The plant of the company is located at Fort Bragg and its purpose is to manufacture all kinds of tanks and tank stock, to acquire and deal in anything that makes for the furthering of its business. The capital stock is $25,000 of which $5000 is paid up, held by the three directors as follows:

C. W. Mathews, $4800; J. K. Peirsol, $100; $C. P. Norwall, $100.

Didn't Have License

Receiving information that W. O. Hamilton, of the extreme north coast of this county, and Geo. Ordistine, of Westport, were selling liquor without a county license, Sheriff Byrnes sent a deputy after evidence week before last. This week complaints were filed with Judge Crockett charging both men with the crime mentioned. The trials will be set later.

A Lion Scared by a Mouse.

In the Berlin zoo a mouse was put in the cage of a lion to test whether, as the old stories assert, there was a natural affection between them. The experiment was rather astonishing. The lion saw the mouse before he was fairly through the bars and was after him instantly. Away went the little fellow, squeaking in fright. When he had gone a few yards the lion headed him off, and this was repeated until the mouse stood still. The lion then stood over him, studying him with interest, and presently he brought his paw down on the mouse, but so gently that it was not injured in the least. Then the lion played with the mouse, now letting him run a few inches and stopping him again. Suddenly the mouse changed his tactics and instead of running when the lion lifted his paw sprang straight at the big animal's head. The lion, terrified, gave a great leap backward and roared in extreme fright, while the little mouse made his escape. Of the two the lion was the more frightened.

The Marechal Niel Rose.

There is a pretty little history in connection with the Marechal Niel rose, which is named after the famous general of the Franco-Austrian war. "When General Niel was returning from the scene of his victories in war," writes an eminent florist, "one of the peasant women along the line of march presented him with a beautiful basket of yellow roses. One of these flowers still had its roots clinging to it, and on his arrival in Paris Niel planted the flower in his garden. The rose thrived and finally grew to a bush covered with blossoms. The general then presented the plant as a gift to Empress Eugenie. She was delighted with the beauty and fragrance of the flower and, on learning that the rose had no name, said significantly: 'Then I will give it one. I christen it the Marechal Niel.' And at the same time she bestowed upon the amazed general the jeweled emblem that betokened his promotion to the exalted office of marshal of France."

Schiller's Revenge.

When Schiller was a boy at school he was tormented by a Swiss tutor named Kuplig, who came from the Grisons canton. Years later, when the poet wrote "The Robbers," he revenged himself on Kuplig and the Grisons by introducing this little speech: "To be a scamp you must have genius. Moreover, a special climate is needed for the growth of scamps, and to prove this I recommend you to visit the Grisons canton. It is the veritable Athens of modern rascality." In the later editions of "The Robbers" this quaint bit of spleen does not appear. It is suggested that Schiller was not moved to expunge it by any remorseful feeling, but by a very forcible protest from the residents of the abused canton against this calumny.

On the Way to Mecca.

The bishop of London has published an account of his visit to the Sudan, which included a morning walk "in the very middle of native Africa." A native boy whom he saw standing near a well "was on his way to Mecca, having traveled already 2,000 or 3,000 miles, which had taken two or three years. His father had died on the way, and when I asked him how he would manage he said quietly, 'Allah will provide,' and it never entered his mind to ask me for anything. Five minutes afterward we came across three women—an old woman and two daughters. The eldest daughter was twenty-five. They were coming back from Mecca, but they had started off, she said, when she was a little girl about twelve."

How a Vessel Is Pickled.

They "pickle" vessels today just as they did generations ago. Salt is believed to make the frames and planking immune to decay. A vessel measuring about fifty tons, say—the general dimensions of a little down east coaster or the average fishing schooner—requires about seven tons of salt to make the process successful. The salt is forced between the outer and inner skin of the hull and tamped hard. Sweat arising from temperature changes saturates the salt and forms brine, which permeates the structure with which it comes in contact.—Boston Herald.

Imaginary.

"Father," said the little boy, "every now and then I hear you talking about somebody who was old enough to know better."

"Yes, my boy."

"What age is that, father?"

And the old gentleman after some thought replied:

"My son, there isn't any such thing. It's like the golden age—purely mythological."

Very Particular.

Mistress (engaging servant)—I hope you have nice print dresses, and I expect you always to wear caps. Mary—Yes, mum; I'm very particular to wear caps. I shouldn't like to be taken for one of the family, mum. — London Opinion.

He Couldn't.

De Anecdote—Though he was a great and famous artist, he once stooped to paint a kitchen floor. Cole Fax—How could he do it without stooping?—Exchange.

You Can't Beat Them.

He—Before I was married I thought women were angels. She—Well, finish it—now you know they are.—Boston Transcript.

Happiness lies, first of all, in health. —George William Curtis.
